Community Partner:

The Moore Quality Pest Control team is deeply committed to the community. It's the reason our company was formed, in fact. In 2008, owner and operator Christopher Moore left a Bay Area-based chain pest control business to start his own out of Tracy.

His reason was simple — Chris wanted to provide custom pest control solutions while serving the community he called home. In doing so, he made sure his company would family-centered. Today, his wife Jennie manages the business while his son Josh is following in his father's footsteps of helping eradicate bugs and vermin for San Joaquin County families.

Because of our commitment to the, Moore Quality Pest Control is announcing a fundraising initiative for local non-profit organizers.

As part of our Community Partners Referral Program, Moore Quality Pest Control will donate $50 back to your non-profit organization for every new customer sign up referred to us from your member group.

It's easy for your organization to participate. Just spread the word with flier and referral cards included in this informational packet. Ask your referees to present the referral card or mention it and the organization referred from when signing up for a new service contract with Moore Quality Pest Control.

We will then donate $50 back to your non-profit organization. It's that simple.

As active members of the community, we understand the vital importance of raising funds to provide for the future of your organization. Please let us know if you are interested in participating in our Community Partners Referral Program.
